Powell, OH: Trucks, tractors, snowplows and even a Zamboni will roll into the City of Powell's Adventure Park parking lot on Friday, May 8 for the Parks and Recreation Department's sixth annual Touch-a-Truck event.

The free event runs from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and is designed to give kids an up-close and personal look at a variety of trucks, construction vehicles, public safety equipment and more. Approximately 30 vehicles will be parked in and around the Adventure Park lot, and young attendees will be encouraged to touch and climb on all of them – and maybe even honk a horn or two – while learning more about what each vehicle does in the community.

No advanced registration is required. Parking is available at Adventure Park, located at 260 Village Park Drive, and throughout the downtown area. Adventure Park has several amenities including restroom facilities, two gazebos with picnic tables, a playground and the City's skate park for those looking for additional activities to do before or after the event.
